Support LNG Exports

As the world's largest natural gas producer and natural gas exporter, the US has stepped up to provide the stable and secure energy the world needs. American energy is providing our allies with a cleaner and more affordable fuel source, while supporting a stronger US economy.

The current administration has placed a moratorium on pending and future LNG (liquified natural gas) export approvals, which will negatively affect our environment, economy, and national security. This decision will have global consequences that we must avoid and will hinder our energy independence.

Global energy demand is growing by the day to address everything from international poverty to powering our neighborhood hospitals. Natural gas demand is expected to grow by over 40% in the coming decades, and the US is the best option to meet those needs reliably and affordably. If we don't provide the world with access to US LNG – our adversaries will - leading to fewer jobs, opportunities and production of US natural gas, significantly impacting both the US and global economies.

The additional export projects are critical for global stability, our economy and our environment. Please support sensible energy policies.
